Journals take more awards in state contest

The Lake County Journals have earned additional honors this year from a newspaper organization.

Illinois Press Association officials have awarded the Journals in eight categories of excellence: first place for best Web site; first place for best personality portrait; second place for best sports photo; second place for best special section; second place for best editorial cartoon; third place for reviews; honorable mention for headline writing; and honorable mention for feature photo.

The IPA was founded in 1865 and has evolved into the largest state newspaper association in the country, representing more than 600 daily and weekly newspapers.

It goes without saying that awards from the association are coveted.

Congratulations to all of the Lake County Journals staff members who earned an honor from the organization.

This week, the Journals pay tribute to Halloween.

Check out page 3A of your Journal to read about some of the scariest haunted houses in the area, including X-treme Hauntings in Fox Lake and Realm of Terror in Round Lake Beach.

The article also highlights children-friendly events that are taking place in Lake County.

And the Fall Rec Guide, included with your Journal, lists the trick-or-treating hours for your community.

Those who would like to submit Halloween-related news or pictures can contact me at 847-231-7522 or kgressey@nwnewsgroup.com.

One last note, readers. Information about early voting is printed on page 11A of your Journal.

Economy front and center in 8th District

Both candidates express support for government-led recovery efforts

By KEVIN P. CRAVER
kcraver@nwherald.com

As 8th Congressional District candidates Melissa Bean and Steve Greenberg met with Northwest News Group editors on Oct. 10, the Dow Jones wrapped up the worst week in its 112-year history.

The obvious subject on every American's mind - the economy - dominated the interview.

Both candidates supported Washington's move giving the Secretary of the Treasury a $700 billion line of credit to buy up toxic loans. Bean, the Democratic incumbent from Barrington who voted for the measure, objected to calling it a "bailout."

Bean, who is seeking a third term Nov. 4, said it was not the perfect bill, given the speed with which it was put together, but she became convinced that inaction would cost much more.

"When [Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke] came and testified to us and said we're at that precipice - that this could be something akin to the Great Depression - we really felt that instead of focusing on the exact details of, was this the perfect plan, and there were certainly those in Congress who didn't feel it was, that the decision really came down to, 'Are we going to act or not act?'" Bean said.

The measure was approved on the second try and was divisive - McHenry County's other House member, Republican Don Manzullo, voted against it both times. Greenberg, of Long Grove, said he would have voted for the bailout but objected to the line items added to the bill in its successful second try.

"Warren Buffett puts $5 billion in, and that didn't change the dynamic," Greenberg said. "The only one large enough to bail out the country was, unfortunately, the taxpayers."

Bean touted a voting record of fiscal responsibility in her four years in office, and she said she had voted to cut $300 billion in government spending during that time.

"I now have shown that this is a district that can get representation for families and businesses," Bean said.

Republican challenger Greenberg, who like Bean has small-business roots, said she had not done enough. But during the interview he said that his party and President Bush were equally culpable for the present crisis.

"I ran for the U.S. Congress because I felt like both parties, Republican and Democrat alike, forgot who the customer was," he said.

The economy also worked its way into questions on energy independence and the war in Iraq. Bean said she supported a withdrawal timetable, but a "careful and deliberate" one, not one rushed at the expense of Iraq's stability. Greenberg said he opposed setting a timetable for Iraq withdrawal.

Bean won the formerly Republican bastion in 2004 with an upset victory over 34-year incumbent Phil Crane, and she won re-election in 2006 by defeating both the GOP challenger and a third-party candidate. The 8th Congressional District covers northeast McHenry County, western and northern Lake County, and portions of far northwestern Cook County.

Spooky sights reign in Lake County

By COLIN SELBO

cselbo@nwnewsgroup.com
and STEPHANIE LEHMAN
slehman@nwnewsgroup.com

Halloween can be a difficult holiday for those unable to make it through a horror movie without screaming loud enough to wake the whole neighborhood.

But for those who anxiously await the goblins, ghouls and goodies, Halloween is a holiday to savor.

Boasting haunted houses that are sure to leave a person trembling, Lake County provides the Halloween connoisseur with ample opportunities to enjoy scares and screams throughout the season.

Before you set out on your Halloween adventures, let the Lake County Journals be your guide to some of the best haunted horrors in the county.

X-treme Hauntings

As the name suggests, X-treme Hauntings in Fox Lake is not a Halloween attraction for amateurs.

"We got the name because we're not holding back," owner John Vileta said.

"A lot of these other places are afraid of taking it to the next level," he said.

Utilizing both technology and live actors, X-treme Hauntings is a place that Vileta wants people to be afraid to return.

Last year, he said, four people passed out from the intense experience.

"This is not the day when you can hide in the corner and say, 'Boo.' People don't want that anymore," he said.

Vileta said X-treme Hauntings workers build all of the props, and its employees are constantly listening to customers for ideas on how to improve the business. The goal is to create an experience unique to the area, Vileta said.

"Everybody has their own style of doing things. Personally, we build like Fort Knox. We over-build everything so we don't have problems throughout the year."

X-treme Hauntings is open every Friday, Saturday and Sunday through Halloween weekend. Doors open at 7 p.m., and tickets are $12 on Friday and Saturday and $10 on Sunday.

X-treme Hauntings is located at 76 Honing Road in Fox Lake. The house is recommended for those 13 and older.

Vileta said he does not mind if his X-treme Hauntings is scary enough to turn some people away.

"Some owners only think about the bottom dollar. I'm just trying to break even," he said.

Dungeon of Doom

Entering its 12th year, Dungeon of Doom in Grayslake is a Halloween destination for thrill seekers from miles around.

"People come to visit our attraction from all over the Chicago and Milwaukee area," co-owner Peter Koklamanis said.

"We have an incredible return-customer base. We have convinced our customers that year in and year out that [they] will get a high energy experience," he said.

It is his years of experience and visits to many other haunted houses that has brought Koklamanis to the realization that energetic live performers are critical to a scary haunted house.

"We have tried to master a couple things and one of those is to energize our performers in order to elevate their performance on a nightly basis," Koklamanis said.

"We basically are trying to master the art of scaring people," he said.

Along with co-owner Tony Relken, Koklamanis does not want just anyone working to scare customers at Dungeon of Doom.

"We pick and choose those individuals that really understand the concept of timing and become very involved in the customer's direct, private space," Koklamanis said.

One of the most popular attractions at Dungeon of Doom, Koklamanis said, is "Buried Dead or Alive," which gives visitors the feeling of being buried alive in a coffin.

New this year to Dungeon of Doom is the haunted maze "Labyrinth of Doom."

The 18th annual Fright Fest is underway at Six Flags Great America.

Dungeon of Doom is open every weekend through Halloween and some weekdays. (Check the Web site www.dungeonofdoom.com for a complete list of days.)

Tickets are $15 and doors are open 7 p.m. on Fridays and 6:30 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Dungeon of Doom is located at 50 Route 45 in Grayslake at the Lake County Fairgrounds.

Fright Fest

A long-time favorite for thrill seekers, Fright Fest is back at Six Flags Great America in Gurnee.

"This time of year at the park is such a unique experience. The whole park is really transformed, and you get this whole sensory experience," said Brooke Gabbert, public relations manager at Six Flags.

This year the park boasts a new feature titled "Save A Cockroach ... Eat Another Creepy Crawler," Gabbert said.

With cockroaches not on the menu, the options for hungry parkgoers include earthworms, meal worms, grasshoppers, silk worms and snails, she said.

"[The bugs] are real, and the guests can have the opportunity to eat whatever the wheel lands on," Gabbert said.

For these looking for a less frightful environment, the park also offers scare-free zones for families, Gabbert said.

Six Flags is located at 542 N. Route 21 in Gurnee. The park is open every weekend through Halloween.

Check the park's Web site at www.sixflags.com for prices and hours.

Halloween Gala

For Halloween fun that's a little less intense and a little more kid-friendly, the Wauconda Park District offers its 19th annual Halloween Gala from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25.

The gala will feature events both inside and outdoors. Carnival games will take place inside the, park district's gym, while a haunted hayride will travel through Cook Park.

Also featured will be the annual duck race, where children watch rubber ducks float down a river created by the park district. Ducks can be purchased for $1 a piece, or $10 a flock (12 ducks).

The average age of attendees is between 3 and 10, though older volunteers help run the event, said Jill Hastings, marketing coordinator of the park district.

"The nice thing about it is we have teenage volunteers come and dress up," Hastings said. "I think this is a great event because Wauconda doesn't really offer too much for Halloween. It gets everyone involved."

The gala will be held at the Community Center, 600 N. Main St., in Wauconda.

Admission is $10 for the first child and $8 for each additional child. Adults are free.

Realm of Terror

One of the scariest haunted houses in the state resides smack dab in the middle of Lake County — Kristoff's Realm of Terror Haunted House, located at 421 W. Rollins Road in Round Lake Beach.

Named one of the top 10 haunted houses in Illinois last year by Haunted Illinois, Kristoff's boasts a range of "untraditional scare tactics" for a night of thrills one will never forget, said Tom Kristof, owner of Kristof's Entertainment Center.

The Realm of Terror, however, is not for children under the age of 13.

"This particular haunt is designed for the not faint of heart," Kristof said. "We probably send away 30 people [a night] from the front scare, and the back scare — they never make it through."

The Realm of Terror draws an average of 600 to 700 customers a night, Kristof said. The back scare — an 800-square-foot fog maze, with surprises, of course — has left customers struggling to get out for more than 45 minutes, said Kristof's 18-year-old son, Steve.

Steve Kristof, alongside Brad Cannon and Jeff Standeven, have made upgrades from last year's haunted house and are looking to have the Realm of Terror named the top scare house in the state this Halloween season.

"The three of them are the co-directors of this haunted house. They simply have put together the best haunted house, and I'm not telling you this as the owner," Kristof said. "We have a haunted house here that is second to none. If we don't take first place, we should be second."

The Realm of Terror is open from 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and 7 p.m. until no earlier than midnight Friday and Saturday. Admission is $10 a person, and $2 coupons are available online at www.kristofs.net.

Haunted Harvest

The Haunted Harvest at Lambs Farm in Libertyville is a Halloween event that caters to the entire family.

Open from 6 to 10 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, and Saturday, Oct. 25, the Haunted Harvest is in its fourth year of family spooking.

"We have stuff for little kids, and we have stuff for people looking to get scared," said Jackie Rachev, communications coordinator of Lambs Farm.

"It's something that appeals to the whole family. It's nice to come out, and you can get a full range of activity for the whole family, for the 4-year-old to the 12-year-old who wants to go on the train," she said.

The train — known as the Train of Terror — is the spookiest attraction that Lambs Farm offers, Rachev said. It loops the back of the farm, around Lambs Lake, and is the most popular stop at the event.

The Haunted Harvest also features graveyard golf (mini golf with a cemetery theme), the enchanted carousel, monster midway games and a creature walk — a stroll through the farm yard, where farmhands stand by in costume.

An all night pass is $15 a person; kids younger than 3 are free with the purchase of an adult pass. Individual activity pricing also is available: graveyard golf is $5; creature walk is $3; enchanted carousel is $3; and Train of Terror is $5.

Among the upcoming Halloween activities at Lambs Farm is the Little Goblins Gathering from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Oct. 25, where crafts, costume contests for children and pets, and more will be offered.

Lambs Farm is located at 14245 W. Rockland Road in Libertyville, at the intersection of I-94 and Route 176.

Lake County Board seat for the taking

Candidates vie for opening in 1st district

By COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgroup.comFor candidate bios and additional election information, visit LakeCountyJournals.com.

With no incumbent on the ballot, Democrat Peter Grant and Republican Linda Pedersen are both seeking a first term as Lake County Board District 1 representative.

Grant and Pedersen are running to replace outgoing board member Judy Martini.

Pedersen, who has lived in Antioch for 46 years, said her experience as a legislative aide to state Rep. JoAnn Osmond and former state Rep. Tim Osmond has been invaluable preparation for serving on the board as it has allowed her the chance to hear directly from residents.

"Anytime constituents have a problem they are going to be calling me," Pedersen said. "I think I'll have a good understanding right off the bat of what my role is [on the board]."

Pedersen said she believes the top concern among county residents is the economy, and she said one of her top priorities will be finding ways to bring additional business to Lake County, instead of seeing business move across the border to Wisconsin.

"Wisconsin is very good with business incentives and bringing business over the border," Pedersen said.

"There has to be something we can do to strengthen incentives to bring businesses here," she said.

Pedersen said one way to improve the business climate in the county is by improving the county's infrastructure and moving projects "off the wish list and onto the bid list."

Grant, a resident of Antioch Township for 23 years, said the top concern he hears from voters is rising property taxes.

"It seems like the value of our property is going down, but the assessments keep going up," Grant said. "So, there's a disconnect there."

Peter Grant

Linda Pedersen

The board has a responsibility to hold the county assessor responsible, Grant said, even if that means finding someone else to fill the position.

"The county board has a responsibility to use taxes wisely," Grant said. "The best way to fairly represent everyone in the county is to make it a policy to make all aspects [of business] open and fair."

Grant said the board will face decreased revenue in the coming years and needs to quickly address wasteful spending.

"The county is in a recession, if not a depression. We have to start cutting expenses now," he said.

Grant also said he supports increased public transportation in the district including bus service and increased train service to Chicago.

Both candidates agreed that working with legislators in the state capitol is critical.

"Springfield is an embarrassment," Pedersen said. "It's important to have our lobbyists get down there and pound the pavement."

Grant said the district often does not get the attention it deserves from legislators.

"Our district seems to be passed over time and time again for resources," he said. "I'm not going to blame everything on Wisconsin and Springfield. We're going to find solutions."

Pedersen said she has been endorsed by Martini and county board member Suzi Schmidt. She also has an endorsement from Osmond.

Grant said his endorsements include ones from state Sen. Michael Bond and Lake County Sheriff Mark Curran. He has also received endorsements from the Illinois League of Conservation Voters and the Sierra Club.

Grant said he is also an avid sportsman and member of the National Rifle Association.

Lake County Board District 1 encompasses the village of Antioch and parts of Fox Lake, Lindenhurst and Lake Villa.

CORRECTED NOTICE OF PROPOSED CALL FOR A STATE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

That will be submitted to the voters - November 4, 2008
To the Electors of the State of Illinois:

At the general election to be held on Tuesday the 4th day of November, 2008, you will be called upon in your sovereign capacity as citizens to adopt or reject the calling of a constitutional convention for the State of Illinois.

The 1970 Illinois Constitution requires the electors of the State to decide, every 20 years, if it is necessary to revise or rewrite the Illinois Constitution. At the general election to be held on November 4, 2008, the voters will be called upon to decide whether Illinois should convene a constitutional convention.

EXPLANATION

The purpose of a state constitution is to establish a structure for government and laws. The Illinois Constitution provides citizens with rights and protections; creates the executive, judicial, and legislative branches of government; clarifies the powers given to local governments; limits the taxing power of the State; and imposes certain restrictions on the use of taxpayer dollars. There are three ways to initiate change to the Illinois Constitution: (1) a constitutional convention may propose changes to any part; (2) the General Assembly may propose changes to any part; or (3) the people of the State by referendum may propose changes to the Legislative Article. Regardless of the method of initiating change, the people of Illinois must approve any changes to the Constitution before they become effective.

A constitutional convention is a meeting of delegates elected by the people to review the Constitution. During a convention, the delegates may propose changes to parts of the current Constitution, write a new Constitution, or make no changes whatsoever. If the people of the State on November 4, 2008 decide it is necessary to call a convention, a separate election will be held to elect delegates to represent the voters during the constitutional convention. The elected delegates will meet to review the current constitution and decide whether the constitution should be revised or rewritten. There is no limit as to how long a constitutional convention may meet. The last constitutional convention met for nine months. Once the delegates complete their work, the voters will have an opportunity to approve or reject proposed changes.

The call for a constitutional convention will be on the November 4, 2008 general election ballot. If you support the calling of a Constitutional Convention, vote "YES." Three-fifths of those voting on the question or a majority of those voting in the election must vote "yes" in order for a constitutional convention to be called.

If you oppose the calling of a Constitutional Convention, vote "NO."

FORM OF BALLOT

Proposed call for a Constitutional Convention
Explanation of Proposed Call

This proposal deals with a call for a state constitutional convention. The last such convention was held in 1969-70, and a new Constitution was adopted in 1970. The 1970 Illinois Constitution requires that the question of calling a convention be placed before the voters every 20 years. If you support the calling of a Constitutional Convention, vote "YES." If you oppose the calling of a Constitutional Convention, vote "NO."

Fire district pushes for referendum passage

Approval would add safety measures, raise tax rate

By COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - When voters in Antioch Township go to the polls in November, they will have more to choose from than just who to elect to public office. There also will be a referendum from the Antioch First Fire District.

The new tax rate the fire district is seeking would allow the department to start running fire engines with advanced life-support capabilities. The rate increase also would allow the department to staff each of its three fire stations 24 hours a day.

Chris Lienhardt, public information officer for the Antioch Fire Department, said asking residents to pay for ALS capabilities on fire engines is not unreasonable.

"The standard [in Lake County] is ALS engines. We're trying to keep up with the standard," Lienhardt said.

The addition of ALS capabilities will allow district fire engines to serve many of the same functions as an ambulance, Lienhardt said. The department already has staff people with the training to work with ALS equipment, but the department currently lacks the necessary equipment.

Approval of the referendum also will help cut down on the department's response time, he said.

"We'll have a paramedic on every rig [if the referendum passes]," Lienhardt said. "If you're having chest pains, instead of waiting seven to eight minutes, now you'll only have to wait two to three minutes."

If the referendum is approved, it would cost the owner of a $200,000 home about $150 annually.

The district hosted an informational meeting on the referendum for the public on Oct. 13. At the meeting, Lienhardt said approval of the referendum will allow the department to respond to calls in the district in a more timely matter.

"The thing we have to do is put people in the station to shorten the response time," Lienhardt said.

Antioch Township resident Charles Hamlin said he plans to vote in favor of the referendum.

Hamlin said his father served as a volunteer fireman in Lake Villa, so he knows the importance of shortening a fire department's response time.

Hamlin also said the addition of ALS capabilities on fire engines is important for residents of the district.

But George Mastell of Antioch Township was not convinced and plans to vote against the referendum.

"Now is the wrong time to ask for money," Mastell said, citing the condition of the economy. He said he is concerned assessment values of property will not decrease when the referendum takes affect.

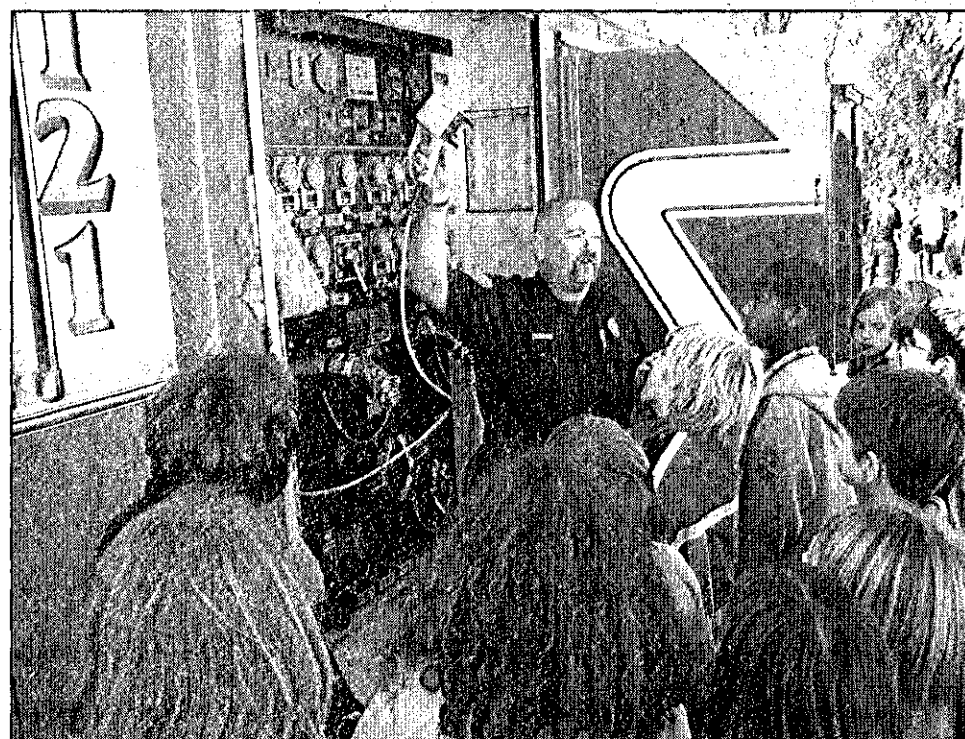

Assistant Fire Chief Jeff Vandevoorde said passing the referendum is a necessary step for the township. He said he thinks most residents agree.

"It seems like we have had quite a bit of support," Vandevoorde said. "The benefits outweigh the costs."

Lienhardt said the necessity of the referendum is a case of meeting rising demand in the district, while the department is taking in less revenue.

"When property values go down, we collect less money, but operation costs are rising," Lienhardt said. "We're not going to be lighting cigars with $100 bills if this thing passes."

Making the call

Residents phone local shut-ins

By COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgrp.com

ANTIOCH – Out of the millions of phone calls made every day, a few stand out a little more than the others.

For more than 30 years, volunteers at United Methodist Church in Antioch have been making regular phone calls to elderly residents who simply are unable to get out in the community like they used to.

"It's just that these people are all by themselves, and maybe they don't get another call all day long," volunteer Jane Pederson said.

Pederson retired in 1980 and has been making regular calls to shut-in elderly residents in Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst ever since.

Known as "Community Telecare," the service is a relatively simple operation, but results can be invaluable.

If a recipient of the service does not answer after repeated calls when he or she is supposed to be home, then the caller will contact a relative of the individual, volunteer Carol Maplethorpe said.

If needed, volunteers will stop by the recipient's house.

"We have found people very ill, and we even found a person or two dead," Maplethorpe said.

"They probably wouldn't have been found as quickly without the phone calls."

While the calls can serve as a precaution, Maplethorpe said, the intention of the service is mainly to make a friendly phone call to people who might otherwise not have any other outlet for conversation.

"Some people are quite chatty; it depends on the individual," Maplethorpe said. "Most enjoy the conversation and talk about whatever is current in their lives.

"Generally they're very open and we are happy to visit with them."

Community Telecare first began at United Methodist in 1973 when it was initiated by church secretary Barbara Goetzelman.

The service has continued ever since. But, Maplethorpe said, numbers are down with some long-time recipients passing away in recent months.

She encourages anyone interested in receiving calls, or volunteering to make calls, to sign up.

"People count on these calls, and they're waiting for the calls," Maplethorpe said.

"If we're not there, then they miss the conversation."

The service is free to any interested parties in the community.

"A friendly call is very nice for anybody," Maplethorpe said.

"The volunteers enjoy the visits and so do the recipients."

Clerk position will be on ballot

By STEPHANIE N. LEHMAN
slehman@nwnewsgr.com

The Lake County circuit court clerk race comes down to a matter of experience versus a need for change.

Republican incumbent, Sally D. Coffelt, has 28 years as circuit clerk under her belt, and a list of accomplishments she hopes to continue if re-elected Nov. 4.

As circuit court clerk, Coffelt and her office staff are the official record holders of the 19th district, keeping computer and paper files of every case that is tried in Lake County, including traffic tickets, small claims and felony charges.

"When I came into office ... one of the problems was the money we're supposed to send out to everyone every month hadn't been distributed the last six months," the 60-year-old Waukegan resident said, noting that under her watch, taxpayers have always been paid back. "We've never missed a payment in 28 years. I think that's a pretty strong highlight."

She also pointed to the computer system she implemented in the 1990s, which she said has been updated twice. And she said that the circuit clerk's office is in the middle of implementing an $1.8 million Integrated Justice Project that would link several county offices online, to avoid the duplication of case records and streamline the offices of the state's attorney, county clerk, local municipal police and circuit clerk.

The majority of the costs for these automation programs have not come from taxpayer dollars, Coffelt said, but from document storage fees — user fees charged to those who use the courts.

Coffelt said if re-elected, she would continue to maintain accuracy in case information.

"Obviously there's going to be some human error, but we have a less than 1 percent error rate on what we do," Coffelt said. "Very rarely do we have someone come in and say, 'You did this wrong.' No one realizes the amount of work that gets done in this office. We do it quietly and quickly."

Coffelt's opponent, 38-year-old Democrat Cynthia Pruim Haran, is an attorney with the public defender's office. She said one of the first steps she would take if elected would be to update the technology of the office.

"We are significantly behind other counties when it comes to accessibility online," Haran said. "I think putting in a system in the '90s was a step, but it's not enough. All of those clerk's offices have some access to their systems online. At most of them, at the minimum, people can pay a traffic ticket online."

Haran also said she would call for an external audit of finances of the clerk's office.

"[Coffelt's] brother is in charge of the money in the office, so there's no checks and balances there," Haran said. "No one else knows what's going on with the money. When you have someone in office for 28 years ... you do need someone from the outside to come in and look."

Haran said she would look to improve employee morale within the office of the circuit clerk, something she said has been lacking for years and is backed by the recent unionization of the circuit clerk's employees.

"Prior to being a lawyer, I worked for Hilton Hotels, so my job was focused on guest service and quality service," Haran said. "What I learned in that position was that in order to provide quality service to your guest and clients, [you have] to make your employees happy."

Coffelt said she wouldn't have kept her family members — five, total — employed in her office had they been unqualified.

She also pointed to her track record as her biggest edge over her opponent.

"I do think my experience speaks for itself," Coffelt said. "I've been honest, I've been fiscally responsible, I've cultivated a courteous and knowledgeable staff. I'm just very proud of the 28 years that I've served."

Haran, meanwhile, said her previous jobs have well-prepared her for office.

"The clerk does the business of the courts. And who better to do that job than someone with a business background and a law background?" Haran said. "It's the perfect opportunity to change an office that needs to be changed."

Members of the Libertyville High School boys cross country team and coach Mark Buesing do a motor pace around their school after hearing a talk by Olympian Craig Virgin, who visited the school Oct. 10.

Olympian gives runners head start

Distance runner offers tips, encouragement to athletes in Libertyville

By COLIN SELBO
cselbo@nwnewsgroup.com

If there's any truth to the notion that it's wise to learn from the best, the Libertyville High School boys cross country team should finish its season strong.

The team got a visit from Olympic runner and former United States record holder Craig Virgin on Oct. 10.

Cross country head coach Mark Buesing said he was thrilled that Virgin would take the time to speak and train with high school athletes.

With all the success Virgin has experienced, Buesing said, the visit was invaluable to the team.

"That's what [Virgin] can bring. That much knowledge and that much experience can really help out young runners," Buesing said.

Virgin spoke with team members about training techniques and passed along motivational tips. He also spoke on the importance of setting personal goals.

"If [you] don't break someone else's record, you can always break your own," Virgin said.

But Virgin said he also stressed the importance of putting in the practice time if runners want to see any improvement in their times.

"[Running] is a training-intensive sport. The really good guys are training two times a day," Virgin said. "This isn't a sport where you can come two or three days a week."

With stories about athletes using steroids and performance-enhancing drugs often dominating headlines, Virgin said he told the team they don't need to use drugs to meet their goals.

"They need to know they can do it clean, and it's been done clean," he said.

The message was not lost on senior Rohan Taneja.

"It was a really cool experience to talk with him. It was great for the younger kids since they're just getting into [running]," Taneja said.

Virgin is a three-time Olympian in the 10,000 meters and is a two-time World Cross Country Champion. He is a former U.S. record holder in multiple distance running events and was inducted into the U.S. Distance Running Hall of Fame in 2001.

But Taneja said Virgin's advice for the team touched on more than just how to improve their times in races.

"What I liked the most about [Virgin's talk] is it wasn't just in the arena of running, but he spoke about life in general," he said.

The experience was particularly unique for Buesing. He first met Virgin in 1981 and got a T-shirt signed by the Olympian. Buesing, who was 15 at that time, still has the T-shirt, which Virgin signed again after meeting with the team.

A day after hearing from Virgin, Libertyville competed in the Wheeling Invitational on Oct. 11. The freshman and sophomore team finished first out of 21 teams while the varsity team finished in 13th place.

In support of a judge

To the Editor:
I support David Weinstein for Lake County Circuit Court judge. Although Mr. Weinstein is running as a Democrat, I feel this is a nonpartisan election. Please let me explain.

There are no Democratic judges in Lake County. All elected circuit judges are Republican.

If you are Republican you might say, great! But look at what has happened in Cook County, a Democratic stronghold.

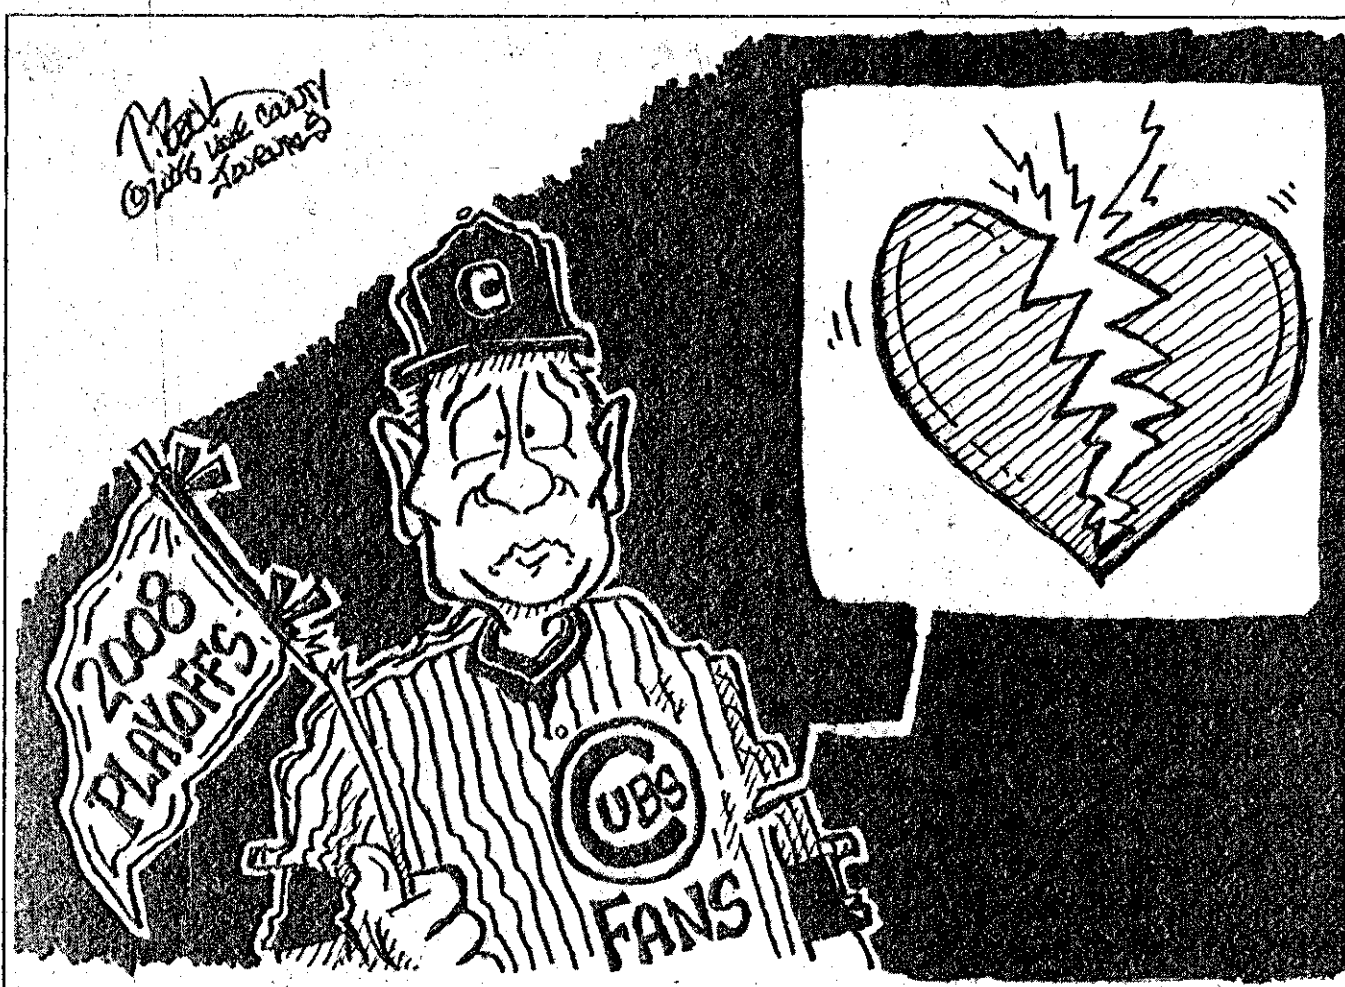

Circuit court judges are the only people we elect. Once in, they can appoint without review associate judges, essentially for life. But what happens when one party dominates?

As in Cook County, the ruling party may force circuit judges to appoint those the party, not the judge, wants, including (to be blunt), less than excellent associates.

A situation like this can be remedied when the judicial system is diverse, when members from both parties compete to add the best talent available, and when there is a healthy review by the minority party of the actions of the majority party.

Mr. Weinstein is among those holding the highest rating the county bar association ever gives. Mr. Weinstein will bring the diversity that the Lake County judicial system needs. We have excellent Lake County

Cutting spending

To the Editor:
Lots of politicians talk about cutting wasteful spending. U.S. Rep. Melissa Bean has shown she will actually do it. Her bill on earmark reform brings real accountability to Congress - something Washington has ignored for too long.

She has proposed a bipartisan commission to study waste in the earmark process, and this commission's recommendations are binding.

We need action if we are going to change Washington, not just words.

Melissa Bean has shown she is part of that change and will continue to fight for that change.

Hope for a hospital

To the Editor:
In Lake County and the greater Chicago area, we're accustomed to convenience and access to the best. No matter where we live, we're close to a variety of large grocery stores.

There are seemingly coffee shops and drug stores on every corner, and malls are nearby.

But in Lake County, one characteristic defies logic - the lack of access to hospitals. There is one hospital bed available for every 2,462 residents, much worse than the state average of one hospital bed available for every 360 residents.

The good news?

That will change soon once Vista Health System's plan to build a new hospital in Lindenhurst comes to fruition.

I'm encouraged to hear that members of the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board made some positive comments about Vista's proposal at a recent meeting. The IHFPB will review the hospital plans at a meeting this December, and I remain hopeful that they will be approved.

Residents of Lindenhurst and the surrounding area need better access to vital health care services, especially a full-service emergency room. I am also looking forward to the many jobs the hospital will bring.

I enthusiastically support Vista and encourage other Lake County residents to do the same.

Voting for forest preserves

To the Editor,
I look forward to voting for a new president on Nov. 4, and I'll be sure to find the forest preserve question near the bottom of the ballot and vote for that, too.

As someone who is raising four children in Lake County and loves to bike, run, ski and kayak, I encourage everyone to vote for this, so we can buy more forest preserves.

For my family, the preserves are a refuge where we catch a quick hour here and there to explore and unwind.

It's so healthy for children to have big places to do this. I also like that this proposal won't raise taxes, since bonds about to be retired will simply be replaced by new ones. For just a few dollars a year, we can all help the forest preserves continue to buy and care for land. That's the best financial investment I've seen a government agency propose in a long time.

Liking new lights

To the Editor:
I am so happy to see the new street lights on Teske Boulevard in Park City.

Park City keeps looking better every day.

Every time I turn my head, there is something that city officials are doing to make Park City a better place to live. When I came home and saw these new street lights lit up, I was so excited.

They add something to a street that has looked so plain for years.

So many people have so much to complain about with government. In Park City, the government seems to be working for us, I thank Mayor Pannell and the city council for all their hard work.

Now if only we could get the state to fix Old Plank Road.

Keeping open space

To the Editor:

I urge voters to support the forest preserve district's referendum for open space on Election Day.

Without raising our tax rate, we can make an important investment in our county's ability to retain a critical balance of open space in the face of inevitable growth.

Having devoted my career to teaching about landforms, I've seen firsthand the many ecological treasures of our county's landscape. Lake County, by far, boasts some of the richest habitats of all counties in the state.

These lands provide much-needed breathing space, critical wildlife habitat, essential flood protection, and water and air purification services.

The fact that our forest preserve tax rate has dropped each of the last six years makes this even more attractive.

The district is presently out of funds for land purchases. Therefore, I'm happy to take a pass on saving between $24 and $48 a year on my taxes, so the forest preserves can continue to grow.

Let's all vote yes on Nov. 4.

Ron Riepe

Antioch

The right time to ask

To the Editor:

It is odd there's been little discussion regarding the specific amount requested for the Lake County Forest Preserve referendum.

I found it curious that the $185 million requested coincidentally resulted in no tax increase, i.e. new bonds would offset any tax decrease from maturing bonds.

I wondered, did the district aim for this effect or did it strategically derive the amount to satisfy long-term goals?

I've learned it was both, and that demonstrates good judgment on the part of the LCFPD.

Although the district's long-term plan targets 10,000 new acres, they limited the referendum to a third of that.

Why? Because LCFPD officials want to increase land without increasing staff.

Also, they are unwilling to ask taxpayers for any increase given the economic climate.

Why not ask for less, so taxpayers get a tax decrease? Because land acquisition funds are gone.

A reduction of $10 million in the referendum equates to an immaterial reduction of $1.20 annually to taxpayers.

It's good judgment to seize the opportunity presented by the current economy, to invest when land costs are low without over-extending either the LCFPD or taxpayers.

This referendum is a sound investment with no tax increase.

I'll vote yes.

Bailout a bust

To the Editor:

Last night, Sen. [Barack] Obama, who has gotten more money per time in office from Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac officials than anybody in Congress, rewarded his special interest contributors with a 700 billion line of credit that has no time limit and almost no outside supervision of the Treasury secretary.

"Maverick" John McCain also hypocritically voted for this 451-page bill, which is loaded with the sort of special-interest goodies he pretends to oppose.

Democrat Rep. Peter DeFazio has a plan any honest Republican could endorse, called the "No Bailouts Act."

Unfortunately, this type of bill has little chance of passing.

My suggestion is a bipartisan approach of voting against anyone who votes for the disgusting bailout that passed the Senate.

If you are a Republican that can't stomach voting for the Democrat running against Mark Kirk or a Democrat who can't vote for the Republican running against Sen. [Dick] Durbin or the "bipartisan" Obama/McCain tag-team of crooks, let me suggest voting third party, as I will.

If we don't start putting country over party, we won't have a country worthy of the once proud name of United States of America much longer.

Grant D. Noble

Lake Forest

Complimenting the community

To the Editor:

I have always treasured the rich and varied landscape of Lake County and now, at age 89, I am so pleased to see another opportunity to preserve more of it in its natural state.

I refer to the question that will be placed before us on Nov. 4 in regard to funds for more forest preserve land.

I compliment the people of the community for supporting forest preserve referendums in the past and hope they continue that support now.

I ask that everyone join me in approaching this question with vision and patriotism in our hearts.

We trust people to do the right thing, especially for the good of the children.

My village took this approach long ago and residents' lives are better because of it.

In case readers did not know, this ballot question does not raise taxes.

Though a tax decrease is always welcomed, our children and our country need us to preserve our natural heritage, even if it requires sacrifice.

Barbara Turner

Long Grove

Traffic concerns

To the Editor:

It's no news to anyone living in Lake County that bad traffic is affecting the quality of our lives.

Instead of spending precious time with our families or being more productive at work, we are sitting in bumper-to-bumper traffic.

Yet, like a lot of people living in Lake County, we chose to live here to enjoy the beautiful natural environment.

Though we need to fix the traffic problem, we should not sacrifice the beauty of Lake County.

Pat Carey, a candidate for Lake County Board District 11, supports a boulevard for the Route 120 bypass as an alternative to the proposed raised 53 extension. This would be a four-lane road with a median and intersection access with roundabouts.

This alternative would avoid the Almond Marsh and minimize impact to environmentally sensitive lands to the west of Grayslake, including the Kettle Grove Forest Preserve. We can fix the traffic problem in Lake County without destroying the reason we moved here in the first place.

Elect Pat Carey to Lake

County Board District 11.

Vivian Fiore

In the mail

To the editor:

I like to read the mailers and letters sent to me by candidates for office.

They tell me a lot about the candidates even if I need to read between the lines in many instances.

There is also an entertainment factor in political literature.

The most fun is to see who can send the most outrageous stuff about their opponent.

Sens. Terry Link and Judy Barr Topinka were the victims of some nasty mudslinging literature two years ago.

However, in that election, the stuff I found to be the most outrageous was sponsored by Amanda Howland against her opponent, Rep. Ed Sullivan.

I will be watching my mailbox carefully this month to see what Howland will use to attack Sullivan with in this election as she attempts to defend her title.

Robert Freese

Mundelein

No more tax increases

To the Editor:

It is unbelievable that our elected officials for District 121 (Warren Township High School) and our Lake County Board have their heads in the sand and are so out of touch with reality.

As of the day I am writing this letter, gas is $4.35 a gallon at most stations, electric bills are on the rise 6 percent or better per Com Ed, natural gas is on the way up, and grocery prices out of the ballpark.

Our economy is the worst I have ever seen – people out of work or scared about losing their jobs along with homeowners already losing their homes.

But District 121 has the nerve to put a $30 million referendum on the ballot. That money is not needed.

Now on the county level, our county board members must not be living in the same world as the rest of us.

The economy is in dire straits, and they think we can afford $185 million more for the forest preserve district?

I think it is high time that the voters throw out all elected officials that are out of touch with reality and their constituents. So, please, on election day, Nov. 4, vote no for more taxes at the ballot box.

All voters need to keep on eye on those elected officials who are pushing these big-time tax referendums and get involved. Write letters to the editor, put up "Vote No" signs in your yard or business and vote these big-spending officials out of office.

The CLC Music Department groups continue to set new records of participation, said Dr. Charles Clency, professor of choral music, in a release.

A total of 120 singers participate in the college's three choirs: the CLC Singers, the Choir of Lake County and the Gospel Choir.

The Oct. 26 choral concert will highlight musical variety, including works by Russian and Guatemalan composers, ballads such as "Hello" (Lionel Ritchie), a Kirby Shaw setting of "Unforgettable," the all-time favorite "Shenandoah" and "Where is Love?" from "Oliver."

Since Clency joined the college four years ago, the choral program has established a reputation of unique diversity that spans age, gender, race, profession and musical style.

"Participants include pastors, professors, college deans, housewives, corporate executives, music instructors, choir directors and students," Clency said.

County seeks volunteer weather monitors

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

Have an interest in the weather?

Volunteers from Lake County are invited to participate in a new weather monitoring program designed to increase the number and density of recording locations in the state and throughout the country.

The program is called the "Community Collaborative Rain, Hail and Snow" network, also known as CoCoRaHS. Volunteers will attend a training workshop to participate in the program. The next session will take place Thursday, Oct. 30, in Grayslake.

CoCoRaHS is a volunteer system of backyard weather observers of all ages working together to measure and map precipitation – including rain, hail and snow – in their communities.

The training workshop will take place at the University of Illinois Extension office, 100 S. Route 45, in Grayslake. The program begins at 7 p.m., with registration beginning at 6:30 p.m. Registration is required by Oct. 27.

To register, call the University of Illinois Extension-Lake County office at 847-223-8627 or visit Lake.extension.uiuc.edu, and look for "Community Collaborative Rain, Hail and Snow."

The only requirements are an enthusiasm for watching and reporting weather conditions, and a desire to learn more about how the weather can affect people's lives. However, observers are requested to attend the training, and they will be responsible for the cost of their own monitoring equipment, which is approximately $25. Participants also need access to the Internet.

There is no charge to attend the workshop. And attendance at the workshop does not require participation in the program, as interested persons can attend just for the information.

ComEd rate hike too much at wrong time

When Ronald Reagan debated then President Jimmy Carter for the presidency, and Carter persistently repeated attacks at him, Reagan just coolly answered, "There you go again."

That's the way I felt recently when I learned that the Illinois Commerce Commission again approved a rate hike for ComEd, this time a $270 million, or 6-percent increase. There they go again.

It may not sound like much. The average residential rate-payer coughs up about $75 a month to ComEd, and the additional charge amounts to just a shade under $5 a month.

But, in these times when consumers are socked at every turn, a $60 jolt a year is tough to swallow.

As I write this, the price at the gas pump took an obscene 50 cents-a-gallon jump in just two days. We were given the reason that it was caused by the Houston hurricane; it's a gas gouging.

So, it's not only the utilities that hit on us.

It's the cumulative effect of food, gas-pump, and other goods prices that are causing the public such alarm. To increase the utility rates in these recessionary times makes no sense.

The ICC decision was supposed to go into effect immediately, except that Attorney General Lisa Madigan and the Citizens Utility Board plan to appeal the rate-hike approval. Since it has become the public's utility watchdog, it has been said that CUB has saved Illinois ratepayers more than $7 billion that all utilities have attempted to impose on us.

It never fails that the ICC doesn't approve the full amount that a utility requests. This time, the ComEd request was $90 million more than it sought.

It's like the consumers are getting a good deal. Oh, sure. It's still a big increase.

We're led to believe that they should hold a tag day for ComEd and its parent company, Exelon. ComEd said that the larger increase was needed because it was not making enough profit. Believe me, if that were the case, and Exelon chose to dump ComEd, there would be another utility that would quickly "fill the breach."

CUB said that Exelon made $2.9 billion in profits last year and that ComEd had received a rate increase in 2006. Both CUB and Lisa Madigan had recommended that ComEd receive only 10 percent of the $361 million request, noting that the utility clearly overstated its expenses.

In effect, officials stated that if the larger amount were approved, it would mean exorbitant profits for shareholders further burdening the ratepayers.

I agree with the American Association of Retired Persons, which also opposed the ComEd rate increase.

The association has said, "It's too much, and it's at the wrong time, and people are getting hit already."

While ComEd pleads that it isn't showing enough profit, it shows no mercy for the many seniors and others living on fixed incomes.

ComEd has been riding the gravy train for many years. It's about time that we stop the train.

Ninth rabid bat found

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center continues to urge Lake County residents to avoid contact with bats.

A ninth bat, found in Libertyville Oct. 2, has tested positive for rabies.

No human or pet contact with the bat was reported to the department.

This year the bats that have tested positive were picked up in Antioch, Deerfield, Lake Forest, Lake Villa, Libertyville, Riverwoods and Waukegan.

Last year, nine bats tested positive in Lake County.

Rabies is a fatal disease that affects the nervous system of humans and other mammals. However, this disease is fully preventable with prophylaxis. Most commonly, people get rabies from the bite of a rabid animal. In other cases, people can contract rabies if any infectious material from a rabid animal, such as saliva, comes in contact with one's nose, mouth, an open wound or gets directly into the eyes.

To learn more, call the health department at 847-949-9925.

In the Latest Chill for Homeowners, Banks Are Freezing Lines of Credit

By Amy Ilook

When Denise Lopez bought two new tables, a floor lamp and a chair, she financed it with her home-equity line of credit. But it wasn't long before an option. Her line of credit had been frozen.

The purchases for her West Palm Beach, Fla., condo were made on a credit card, and she then wrote a check against her line of credit to cover the purchases.

National City offers cash to cut equity lines

By Saskia Scholtes in New York

National City, the US bank that has been among the hardest hit by the subprime crisis, is trying to reduce its exposure to the riskiest category of home loans by offering customers cash to close their untapped home equity lines.

If the scheme is successful, analysts say other banks could follow suit, choosing to spend money now to avoid taking more exposure to the US housing slump.

With Us It's A Different Story.

Some trends we just don't follow.

1. The Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is variable based on the most recent Prime Rate that is available to us as of the first day of the month and the amount of the commitment. The APR can change on the first day of each month. Minimum amount for a home equity line of credit is $5,000. The maximum APR is 21%. The minimum APR is 4.00%. Consult a tax advisor regarding the deductibility of interest. Property insurance for property securing loan is required. Flood insurance may also be required. An increase in the prime rate may increase the APR which will increase the amount of your payment. Your minimum payment amount will equal the amount of accrued finance charges. An Early Termination Fee of $500 will be charged if you close the line within one year from its opening. Subject to credit approval. Normal underwriting guidelines apply. Rates are subject to change without notice. 2. This reflects a preferred rate from standard variable rates. It will reduce your home equity line APR by .25, subject to rate limitations. If your home equity line payments are deducted from your Libertyville Bank & Trust checking account as a monthly automatic payment debit arrangement, as of 10/01/08, the APR for preferred rates range from 4.25% through 5.00% depending on the amount of the line you want. The APR reduction will be eliminated from the payment arrangement's statement. Contact us for qualifying checking accounts. This rate reduction does not apply to a Fixed Rate Repayment Plan. The selected rate of Prime + .75% APR assumes a commitment amount of $100,000 through $100,000 and participation in a monthly automatic payment debit arrangement with a Libertyville Bank & Trust checking account as described herein as of 10/01/08. If you select a Fixed Rate Repayment Plan with the Total Line of Credit, it must be selected during the first nine years of your term with a minimum amount per plan of $10,000. Repayment plans must not continue beyond the maturity date of the Total Line of Credit. No more than one fixed rate repayment plan may be open at one time. The fixed rate will be based on the Fixed Rate Index (FRI) plus a margin rounded to the nearest 0.125% as of the 1st business day of the month in which the plan is established. The FRI is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury securities adjusted to a constant maturity of 5 years for repayment terms of 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 years, and the margin is 3.00% for a fully amortized Fixed Rate Repayment Plan and the margin is 3.25% for a 15 year amortization Fixed Rate Repayment Plan with a balloon payment. Based on FRI for the week ending 9/25/08, the Fixed Rate Repayment Plan APR values will range from 5.00% through 7.375%. A Fixed Rate Repayment Plan may be charged an Early Cancellation Fee of $200 if you terminate said Fixed Rate Repayment Plan within 12 months of its creation. 3. Visa® Gift Card available after right to rescind period has expired if at least $10,000 is drawn on the first day after right to rescind period expires. ## Getting back in real style

"I need a new dress for a wedding."

I said this to my husband as he watched the Military channel. Incredibly, he got up during World War II and dashed off to my closet where he pulled out three dressy outfits. "What's wrong with these?" he asked.

My answer mimicked Goldilock's logic. "This one's too old, and this one's too baggy."

"And, this one," he interrupted while, holding the third - a two-piece, white sequins-encrusted pants suit, the jacket with padded shoulders so wide it could fit around a refrigerator - "is just right."

I made a face. "This is for a wedding of two 40-somethings who finally found true love. That calls for something good."

"If these things in the closet are no good," he said, "why do you keep them?"

I did what I do best when asked an absurd question. I changed the subject. "What are you wearing to the wedding?"

"My suit."

"You mean the suit you bought for Annie and Stu's wedding? They've just celebrated their 21st anniversary."

"So," he said. "My suit is clean."

"My outfits are clean, too," I said, "but they are out of style. Do you want to be out of style?"

"Yes." He didn't hesitate.

But I had a plan. "Come look at dresses with me, and I won't nag you about a suit."

He was doomed.

Miraculously, I bought the third dress I tried on at half the regular price, leaving my husband with the notion that life was good.

Little did he know that his mood fed right into my plan. "It's early, so let's just go this way," I said. "The big-screen TVs are at that end of the store."

"I don't see big-screen TVs," he said as we walked. "I see men's suits."

"Darn," I said. "I know the TVs are near here, but let's just look at the suits."

A man approached with caution. "Can I help you?" he asked. He wore a store name tag.

"Yes!" I answered. "Please measure my husband for a suit."

He took a tape-measure from his pocket and readied it. But then we both made a discovery. Like Elvis, my husband had left the building.

A few weeks later, we went to the wedding. It was an outdoor affair, but the early September temperature hovered near 60, with rain barreling down. My husband was fine in his old suit. I wore a trench coat the whole time.

A year has passed. My husband is back in front of the Military channel. My dress is in the back of the closet. The newlyweds are back in divorce court for their final hearing.

Independent film to premiere at theater in Lake County

By MARK HANSEN
gurnee@weeklyjournals.com

Rarely do moviegoers in Lake County get a chance to see an independent film on the big screen, especially one made by a Lake County filmmaker.

It gives audiences a chance to see how powerful an art form film is, and how much work and talent it takes to create.

Most movies available in the area have average budgets of hundreds of thousands of dollars or more. They are operated by major studios and made for large profits.

But a movie does not need big bucks to be made.

All it takes is a good idea, a script, camera, actors, and an editing program.

The beauty of independent film is that there are no gimmicks, product placements, or overly contrived scenarios. The film is at its essence, raw, pure and easy to relate to.

Talents in Lake County have joined together to produce an independent film titled "One Week," which will premiere at Marcus Gurnee Cinemas at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18.

Tickets will be $10 each and available at the door. During the event, normal concessions will be for sale, including popcorn, candy, and soda.

"One Week" is a coming-of-age story about a young man named Brett whose deceased brother leaves him $20 million through his will on one condition: He must obtain the signature of a certain individual within one week or lose the "One Week," an independent film, will premiere at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, at Marcus Gurnee Cinemas, 6144 Grand Ave., in Gurnee.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets to the show cost $10 each and will be available at the door.

money.

Simply, this individual is his brother's secretary's oldest first cousin's younger brother's third-grade teacher's neighbor's best friend's daughter's hero's only brother.

Get that?

Brett has one week to complete the task or he loses the money.

He believes this will be an easy task, but it turns out to be extremely difficult. He must confront two important people from his past that hold the last piece of the puzzle.

Tom Kleine, a special-education teacher, wrote the 40-page script for "One Week." He also directed the film and produced it. That work included coordinating shoot locations, supervising, fundraising, hiring personnel and arranging for distribution.

"I think people will come and see the film and be impressed," Kleine said. "It looks pretty high budget, although it's really not."

Kleine got a chance to screen the film, a week before the premiere. He is a busy man, who works 180 days out of the year and still has time to pursue his dreams.

Lucky for him, he has a summer, winter, and spring vacation.

"Last winter break, I felt really happy with the script," he said, "That's when I decided to go ahead and film it."

Kleine's friend Charlie Ramsey helped with casting as they went around to various venues scoping out local talent.

While at PM&L Theatre in Antioch watching the play "Proof," they witnessed the talented actor Ryan Schneider.

Ultimately, Schneider was offered the lead role in "One Week." He plays Brett in the film.

"I can't wait to see how it looks" Schneider said, noting that he has not seen himself on screen before. "I wanna be surprised. It's so nerve racking; I have no idea what the movie looks like outside the trailer."

"The movie is cut, done, and ready to be released. I can't go back and say, 'Ooh I want to change that.' I'm my own worst critic."

Director of photography for the film is Benny Woodell, a Columbia College graduate with a bachelor's degree in film and video. In January, he released a feature horror film called "The Chauffeur," which recently was picked up to be on Midnite Screams, a new show on WCIU, The U, in Chicago.

Members of Village Church in Gurnee prepare donations for the Northern Illinois Food Bank as part of the Sharefest ministry. Churches around Lake County participate in Sharefest, which is a throughout-the-year service event that has helped many churches connect with their communities. Through Sharefest, new relationships have been established between churches, schools, community leaders, and nonprofit organizations across the country.

Lindenhurst resident Dr. Robert Bard hands food to Cynthia Cobb, event coordinator for the food drive at Village Church in Gurnee.

Sharefest, a ministry with many parts

By JOSEPH MULLER
gurnee@weeklyjournals.com

The Midwest does not often see a charity event of this scope and magnitude – The hungry are fed; needy children receive food supplies; low-income families get free furniture; the Red Cross receives hundreds of pints of blood; the elderly's special needs are met.

All of this happens through a church ministry called Sharefest, in which local Lake County churches work together to meet the needs of their communities.

This organization began with a group of Lake County pastors who met with a passion to serve the community. They called themselves Catalyst.

As they interacted, they began to think about the possibilities of working together. Questions about church involvement and the community fueled the beginning of Sharefest.

In 2003, the first year of Sharefest, a group of about 500 people from seven churches renovated an abandoned school building that Antioch now uses for its special-needs program.

"Sharefest really brought our churches together," said Bill Yaccino, executive director of Catalyst.

New churches seeking to serve their community often will join with other organizations to serve the specific needs in their area.

"Our starting point in serving the community was building relationships," Yaccino said.

Many churches have worked with Love In the Name of Christ, an organization that helps the poor, to provide furniture to those in need.

Sharefest has worked with the Lake County Health Department to get school-supply filled backpacks to children who need them. "We are a relationally intensive network," Yaccino said. "We wanted to do what we could accomplish together that we couldn't do apart."

Since its inception, Sharefest has exploded with participation.

This year, Yaccino said, about 8 to 12,000 people participated in the 2008 Lake County Sharefest.

Each church participates in Sharefest by looking at the individual needs of its community.

The Village Church of Wauconda cooks free lunches for its local firefighters and police officers as a sign of appreciation. Some churches cater toward needy children by providing them with a meal or a night of entertainment. Other churches send people to elderly peoples' houses to do projects.

The food drive

Karen Shoopman has spent years collecting thousands of pounds of food for Sharefest. At one time she was the leader of the Sharefest food drive for all of Lake County.

"I had never done anything like this before," Shoopman said. "The pieces fell into place."

For the 2007 Sharefest food drive, Shoopman led the county in raising 84,000 pounds of food for the Northern Illinois Food Bank.

"You can make a huge difference if you step out of your comfort zone," Shoopman said.

Although Shoopman isn't running the food drive this year, her influence can still be seen in the people that participate.

Brandon Smith, youth pastor at the Village Church in Gurnee, said that his kids were "chomping" at the chance to help out with this year's food drive.

For being a busy time for school kids, Smith said, his kids were making this event a priority.

One week, some members of his youth group brought 16,000 grocery bags to people's homes.

A week later, more members of his youth group picked up the bags.

"[The church's] kids are really getting why we do this – to share the love of Christ and put their faith in action," Smith said.

This year's food drive is aiming to surpass last year's total, with the goal of 100,000 pounds of food.

A personal investment

Although some of Sharefest's ministries only affect one person, they still make a difference. The Evangelical Free Church of Wauconda knows this well.

Transit – the church's 20-something-year-old group – called the Catholic Charities of Lake County to find out how it could serve the community.

The group learned about an elderly woman named Judy Dwyer, who needed help with house cleaning and yard maintenance.

When the group started working for Dwyer, it found more than a simple chore.

"We love being around her," church member Brad Gross said. "We have an awesome relationship."

After discovering that Dwyer liked to feed birds, Gross occasionally drove Dwyer to the local Menards to pick up birdseed.

The Evangelical Free Church of Wauconda Transit group chose to invest more time into Dwyer's life, helping to clean her house during the whole year, while also inviting her to lunch periodically.

"I feel so blessed to have them coming to my house," Dwyer said.

Inspired by their good deeds, Dwyer asked Gross what she could do to help others.

Dwyer and the The Evangelical Free Church of Wauconda Transit group decided that they would both go to another elderly woman's house and help out. And that has benefited Dwyer, as well.

"I've been really fortunate," she said.

Norm MacDonald to perform at Zanies

By ERIC SCHELKOPF
eschelkopf@nwnewsgrp.com

Canadian-born comic Norm MacDonald gained fame through his impersonations of Burt Reynolds and Bob Dole on "Saturday Night Live."

But he has always felt most comfortable on stage at a comedy club. He will perform several shows in the area this month.

Do you have all your jokes lined up for your upcoming shows, or do you come up with new material every day?

I come up with a lot of material every day. I don't know what I'll be talking about. I don't know that much about the economy, but I meet a lot of hobos going from town to town relying on the kindness of ladies putting their pies on window sills.

Do you have any favorite stand-up comedians?

My favorite is Bill Cosby. He can both perform and write, which is pretty unheard of, usually. Usually writers aren't performers, and usually performers

Want to go?

Norm MacDonald will perform at Zanies, Pheasant Run Resort, 4051 E. Main St., in St. Charles, at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16. He also will perform at Zanies, Hawthorne Village Commons Plaza, 230 Hawthorn Village Commons, in Vernon Hills at 8 and 9:45 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17, and 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18. Cost is $25. aren't writers. They are usually different types of people. A writer would be more afraid of looking like a fool, so he would carefully try to measure out his words. A performer would just be a buffoon, and therefore he would not be able to write anything because he wouldn't be smart enough. But Bill Cosby, since he can write and perform, was always the funniest one to me.

Does being a stand-up comedian come easy to you?

Yeah, it does. On stage at a comedy club, I can be myself. I am just completely relaxed in that environment. I just feel like that's where I should be. Everywhere else I just kind of feel uncomfortable.

It's been a while since you've starred in a TV series. Do you see yourself doing a TV show again?

I'm going to do a TV series on FX. It's called "The New Norm MacDonald" show. It's a new kind of show.

What is the show going to be about?

It would be close to "Curb Your Enthusiasm," or something like that.

As far as people you impersonated on "Saturday Night Live," who were your favorites?

I didn't impersonate that many people. The only people I ever impersonate are those people I've known for a long time, not know personally, but been a fan of for a long time – Bob Dole or David Letterman or Burt Reynolds. It's because I've watched them so often. It's almost like doing an impression of your friend or something.

Movie to make its debut

FILM

After a five-day shoot for "One Week," Woodell spent two months editing. He completed that in September.

Lou Korom supplied the artwork for the DVD, which will be for sale after the premiere in Gurnee.

The film which has a running time of 62 minutes was self-funded by Kleine.

"It was a bare-bones type budget," he said. "The actors volunteered their time, and it ended up being a few thousand dollars."

Kleine has big plans for the future of his film after the screening.

"I'm planning on entering into as many festivals as possible and see how it fares at the festivals," he said. "I'll be targeting festivals in New York, [Los Angeles], and Chicago mostly."

Catering an Option for Your Next Event

(MS) — Throwing a bash to share with friends and family is something many people enjoy doing. There are so many events worthy of special affairs, including birthdays, graduations, holidays, and so much more.

Part of enjoying the celebration for hosts and hostesses is being able to mingle and share the festivities with guests. But this isn't always possible when they're responsible for preparing and serving the food among a bevy of other responsibilities. That's where hiring a caterer or using a banquet facility can make the party more enjoyable for all involved.

According to the National Catering Association (NCA), catering has become the fastest-growing segment of the restaurant business in recent years. This could be attributed to busier families, where both parents work and the kids are involved in a number of extracurricular activities that take time away from meal and party planning. That's where caterers and banquet halls become invaluable.

Various Types of Caterers

Caterers vary by whether they're on-site or off-site. Some banquet facilities use a specific caterer for all of their events. Other party rooms allow you to choose the caterer.

Find Out What They Provide

Some caterers simply provide the food, others food and drinks, while still others the entire kit and kaboodle: Food, beverages, linens, serveware, etc. When comparing rates of catering services, make sure you're comparing apples to apples. One price may be higher because you're getting a one-stop shopping package from the caterer.

Be Prepared For Discussion

When you sit down with prospective caterers, it helps to have certain information on hand. These items include:

- * number of guests
- * venue if you're using an off-site caterer and not going with a particular banquet facility
- * type of event (social, business)
- * who is being honored
- * food preferences and restrictions
- * budget

* type of service (buffet, sit-down, butler-passed hors d'oeuvres)

* theme or mood you are trying to create

Book Well in Advance

It's suffice to say that many caterers are busy for peak seasons and holidays, so don't wait until the last minute to book with one for your party. Generally weddings and large affairs should be booked nine to 12 months before the event. Smaller functions can be booked a few months before.

Sign a Contract

Make sure that the caterer or banquet facility you choose spells out all agreements in a contract that you both sign. Inquire about contingency plans should there be poor weather or a reason to cancel the party.

Find out if it is possible for a taste-testing to try out the food in advance.

In terms of money, discuss payment schedules and how gratuities are handled. Also find out how you will be billed if the party runs over the allotted amount of time.

Party Planning Organizer Makes Things Easy

(MS) — Everyone loves a party, but planning one can be daunting. From the guest list to grocery shopping, you need a strategy to get it done. Use the organizer below to help you stay on track.

Three weeks before:

- * Plan your guest list and send out invitations. U.S. Mail, phone calls and e-mail are all options.
- * Take inventory. Do you have enough chairs, tables and dishes? Make plans to rent or borrow what you don't have. Or, choose to use disposables.
- * Plan the menu and prepare the shopping list. Note which foods can be made ahead and frozen.

Two weeks before:

- * Plan your decorations and centerpieces. Consider adding a festive flourish to your table with edible topiaries that are not only fun decorations, but help you serve food, too. Instructions are at right, or log onto www.styrofoamcrafts.com.

rofoamcrafts.com.

- * Prepare foods that can be frozen.
- * Choose the party music.

One week before:

- * Contact guests who have not yet RSVP'd.
- * Shop for non-perishables and store them in a convenient place.
- * Clear away clutter and create space for a crowd. If necessary, hire a cleaning service.
- * Make room in the closet for coats.

Two days before:

- * Set the table with linens and serving pieces.
- * Shop for perishables and prepare remaining menu items.
- * Create your decorations.
- * Set up the bar and beverage area.

Our final advice:

- * Ask friends and family to help out. And, enjoy the party!

Fun suggestions

Edible topiaries are both fun to make and serve. Display and serve appetizers like pretzels, cheese cubes and crudites. Serve dessert with style with a topiary covered in sweet treats like cookies and candies. To make an edible topiary, start with a cone of STYROFOAM brand foam from Dow Chemical. Adhere savory snacks to the foam cone with toothpicks or spreadable cheese. Use canned frosting to attach sweets. It's that easy! If you'd like to cover the cone first, you can spread on a layer of cheese or frosting, or cover it with foil, plastic wrap, or food-safe paint. Make it a family affair and ask the kids to help make the topiaries. Complete instructions are available on www.styrofoamcrafts.com.

Escape to a nearby Forest Preserve for relaxation and recreation this fall.

Nippersink Forest Preserve near Round Lake and Heron Creek Forest Preserve near Long Grove are now open. Check www.LCFPD.org for information about these two new preserves and to find other trails and events near you.

A Forest Preserve Referendum is on the November 4 Ballot.

If approved, it would replace older bonds that are being paid off in the coming year with $185 million in future bonds. Your tax rate would stay the same.

The referendum will not increase your taxes, but it will help to increase open space, restore wildlife habitat, create new trails and improve preserves throughout Lake County. Without approval, purchase of Forest Preserve lands would stop.

Find out more at www.LCFPD.org/Referendum.

A Dim Idea for Brighter Utility Costs

(NewsUSA) - Americans look to a dimmer future, not because worldwide destruction looms, but because dimming light bulbs helps save energy.

Many people don't consider their light bulbs a major expense. But if every American homeowner installed one energy-efficient light bulb in an existing light fixture, the nation would save $600 million in energy costs and prevent carbon emissions equal to 800,000 cars each year.

The Consortium for Energy Efficiency, a Boston-based non-profit, created a plan to cut lighting energy in half by 2012. The Consortium, along with the American Lighting Association, encourages the public to buy fixtures with the Energy Star, a designation created by the Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Department of Energy to note products that meet strict environmental standards. Other energy-saving suggestions include using dimmer switches.

Dimmer switches result in less wattage being used, extending the life of bulbs while also reducing electricity bills. Dimmers also prove easy on the eye. Certified Lighting Consultant (CLC) Monty Gilbertson of Lighting Design by Wettsteins in LaCrosse, Wis., says, "Dimmers allow for greater flexibility in lighting product selection and allow multiple uses of a room."

If people are gathering for a dinner party, hosts can turn the lights to their brightest setting. During dinner, the host can set an elegant mood simply by lowering the light.

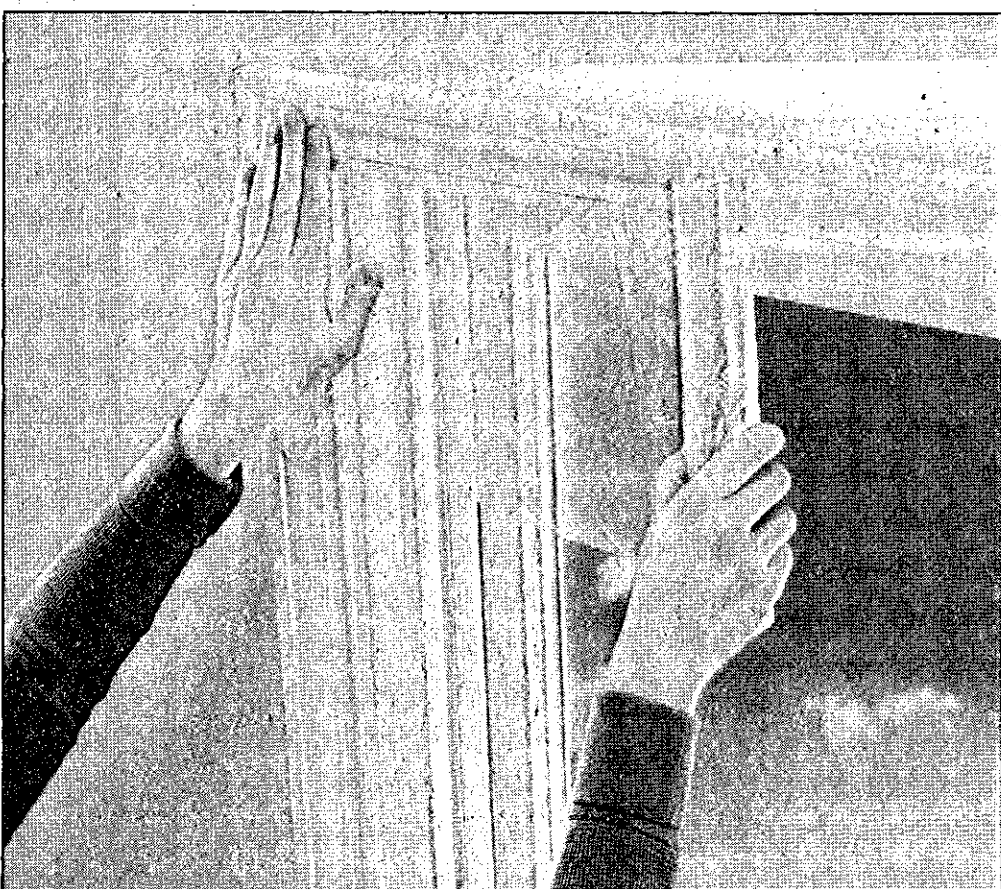

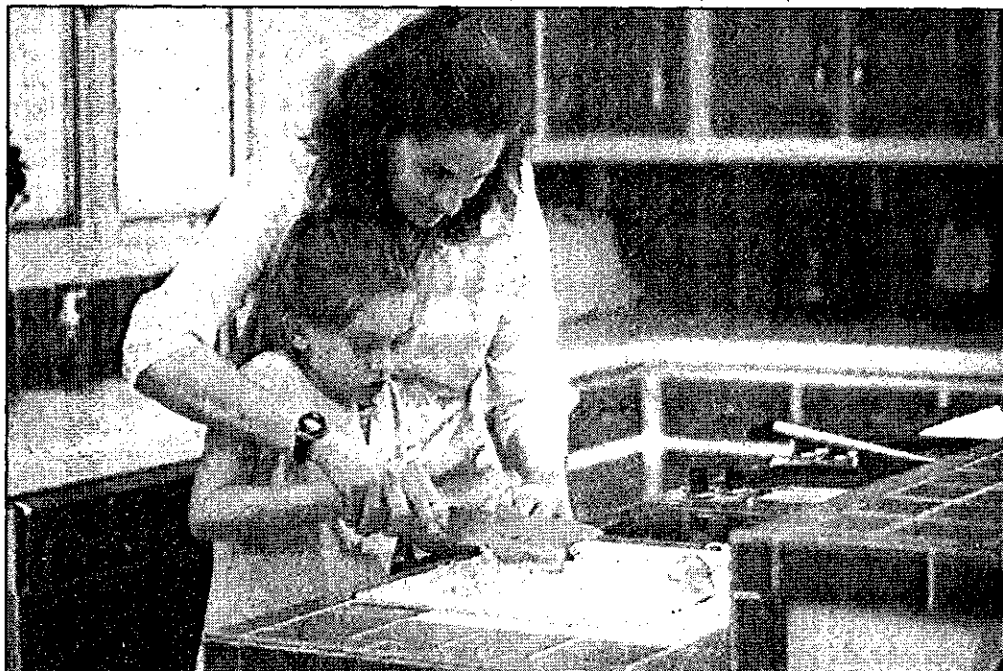

"It's nice to be able to bring the lights to full strength again with the flip of a switch," says

Karen Engle, CLC, of Zanger Associates, Inc. in Eldersburg, Md.

The three main types of lighting used in American homes are incandescent, magnetic low-voltage and electronic low-voltage lights, all of which can be easily dimmed.

Several types of dimmers exist. Wall box dimmers control one or two lights, while scene lighting dimmers allow homeowners to control several lights from one panel. Whole-house systems control every light in the home from a single panel. Occupancy sensors turn off and on when they sense motion.

Five Essentials for Energy Savings

(NewsUSA) - With fuel costs on the rise, many consumers are wondering what they can do to help save on energy bills at home. Making your home more energy-efficient can be surprisingly quick, easy and cost-effective.

Next time you're out running errands, keep these five items on your list of things to buy, and you could start seeing the savings in no time:

- Window insulation kit. Properly sealing drafty windows not only increases the comfort of your home, but may also significantly decrease your energy bills. Insulating windows is an inexpensive and effective way to keep warm air in and cold air out. Choose a product that can easily fit a variety of window sizes, such as the Roll-On Window Kit by Duck Brand, which requires no measuring and minimal cutting and is practically invisible.

- Programmable ther- mostat. A pre-programmed device allows you to control the temperature of your home year-round. According to Energy Star, homeowners can save around $180 a year by properly setting their programmable thermostats and maintaining those settings.

- Compact fluorescent light bulbs (CFLs). Switch out incandescent light bulbs with CFLs, which use at least 75 percent less energy. You can find CFLs that last up to 10,000 hours; about 10 times longer than standard incandescent light bulbs. Try the n-vision line, which includes soft white, bright white and daylight energy-efficient bulbs, so you can find just the right light for any room in your house.

- Insulation. Inadequate insulation in your home may allow cool air to escape in the summer and warm air to be lost in the winter, potentially overworking your heating and cooling systems. Add insulation in the attic, crawl spaces, ceilings and exterior walls to help save energy, reduce your operating costs and keep your home comfortable.

- Furnace filters. Replacing or cleaning furnace filters once a month during the winter will help your heating system operate more efficiently and can keep harmful bacteria, mold, viruses and pollen out of the air. Furnace filters are available in multi-packs, so you can always have one on hand. You could also consider installing a permanent furnace filter, which is washable and cuts down on waste by eliminating the need for throwaway fiberglass screens.

For a minimal investment, you could see hundreds of dollars in energy savings throughout the year. One trip to the store and a few minutes at home are all it takes to make small changes that really add up.

Poor Health? It Might Be Something in the Air

(NewsUSA) - The air in American homes is increasingly contaminated and polluted, and now studies have linked poor indoor air quality to the dramatic rise in not only allergy and asthma symptoms but also a variety of other health issues, including heart disease, stroke and blood clots.

Studies are emerging that prove poor indoor air quality can cause or contribute to a variety of symptoms and medical issues. While individuals with pre-existing medical problems such as asthma, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) and allergies are at most risk from poor indoor quality, the medical literature demonstrates that even those in a good state of health are negatively affected.

The latest study conducted by scientists from Denmark and Sweden, published in the American Journal of Respiratory and Critical Care Medicine, reveals that poor indoor air adversely affects the performance of blood vessels in humans leading to cardiovascular disease.

In an effort to protect public health and combat airborne invaders, Aprilaire, a manufacturer of indoor air quality products, is urging consumers nationwide to consider whole-home air cleaners as part of a modern and integrated approach to managing their indoor environments.

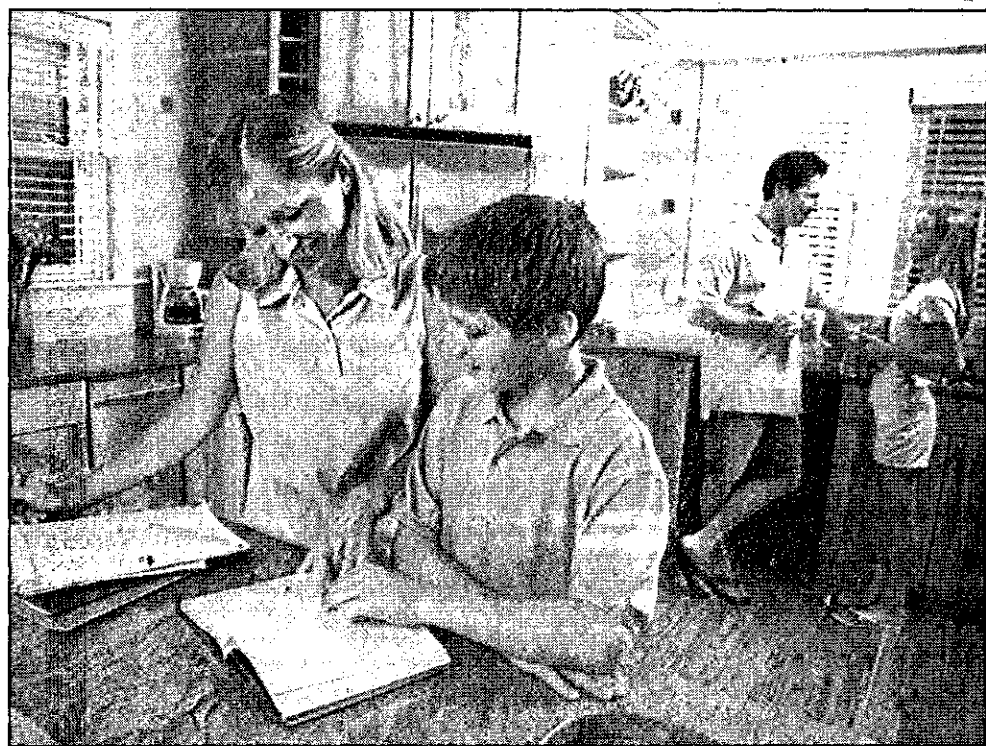

While the medical community acknowledges the benefits of clean air in the home, consumers often find themselves disappointed with the options available at local home improvement centers where portable, do-it-yourself air cleaning units are sold.

"We know through research that most people buy portable air cleaners to help alleviate some sort of respiratory issue. This cannot be accomplished with one portable air cleaner for an entire home," said John Frank, product manager for Ap-prilaire. "In fact, most homes require four or five portable units or more to clean the air throughout the entire home and still don't do as good a job," notes Frank. "A whole-home air cleaning solution is ideal for families who want to ensure healthy, clean air in every room and get the best value for their dollar."

Whole-home air cleaners permanently trap the airborne contaminants that can aggravate health and allergy and asthma symptoms. In a recent standard industry test, the Aprilaire 5000 achieved 99 percent efficiency against airborne particles. The unit captures and kills virtually all contaminants including those that most affect personal health—viruses, bacteria, spores and allergens 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

For more information on whole-home air cleaners and the air cleaner control, visit www.aprilaire.com.

Your Smile

As soon as you finish these few words, I want you to find a mirror. Look at yourself with a deadpan expression - and then smile. What a difference! Before the smile you were just a face. Maybe an attractive face - but still just a face. When you smiled, that face suddenly became you. It's like the difference between a dull auto license picture and a smiling portrait taken by an experienced professional. The first is just a face - the portrait is you.

That beautiful, personality-defining smile was meant to last forever - and it can. The secret is prevention and care. See your dentist regularly and take advantage of the advice you are given. Dental disease is preventable. However, if you don't take care of your teeth, and practice the preventive measures that your dentist can recommend - the odds are good that you're headed for trouble. Protect that smile. It defines the real you.
